

SIXTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY EDITION

ARE JAPANESE ON VERGE OF COUP?

REPORTS FROM SEUL TODAY ARE TO THIS EFFECT.

ANNEXATION QUESTION UP

Hermit Kingdom May Be Swallowed Up by the Islanders at Almost Any Time Now.

Seul, Korea, Aug. 19.—(By Associated Press.)—Though nothing official can be learned concerning the negotiations for the annexation of Korea by Japan are now proceeding, many signs indicate the annexation is imminent.

Long conferences between the officials are constantly in progress and the entire country has been placed under a strong military guard and several Japanese war vessels are patrolling the coast of Korea.

The situation indicates conditions of extreme tension and the crisis is expected to occur at almost any time. It is not anticipated there will be any outbreak of hostilities.

Still Silent.

Tokio, Aug. 19.—The authorities here maintain a complete silence regarding the reports of the impending annexation of Korea. They decline to either confirm or deny the imminence of annexation.

It is pointed out by some officials that for over a year past the Japanese have practically controlled Korea and that annexation would mean nothing more to the Koreans than the present government does.

Certain American diplomats, conversant with the situation, profess to state that if Japan did have entire control of the hermit kingdom the people themselves would be much better off than they have been under the old dynasty.

Should Japan make any really radical move towards annexation it is not thought that any complications will follow as they are too strongly entrenched there to permit rioting or any outside interference with the plans, whatever they may be.

State Law Prohibiting Them in Public Places is Effective Shortly.

Milwaukee, Aug. 19.—As a result of the agitation against public drinking cups, travelers on Wisconsin railroads will find after September 1 that railroads will no longer furnish them, either in stations or on trains. It is still question, however, as to what will replace the alleged germ-carrying cups. A railroad official says: "We will probably install sanitary bubblers in our stations and individual paper drinking cups in trains."

"BACK FROM ELBA" CLUB RAISES THE ROOSEVELT FLAG

Followers of Roosevelt See Chances of His Becoming Candidate in 1912.

New York, Aug. 19.—(By Associated Press.)—Roosevelt for President in 1912. That is believed to be the trend of present affairs in New York politics, for, if the Republicans lose this fall, the party would be forced to call him to aid it in the next campaign. The Roosevelt followers, it is thought, would, on this account, welcome a Democratic victory this fall.

FRENCH MILITARY AVIATORS' CONTEST

For Lazare Weller's $5,000 Prize Are Scheduled to Take Place Tomorrow.

Paris, Aug. 19.—Interest in aviation circles is now centered in Lazare Weller's $5,000 prize competition for French military aviators, which is scheduled to take place tomorrow. Several unique and interesting events are to attend the contest. Every competitor will receive a sealed envelope which he will have to carry, accompanied by an official observer, on his aeroplane to the Governor of Verdun. There an answer to the note will be handed to him and this he must take to the officer commanding the military camp of Châlons.

The distance between Verdun and Châlons is only 47 miles, but many competitors are likely to make a long detour to avoid traversing the Argonne chain of hills, which lie half way between the two points. Competitors will be disqualified should they accept the aid of private persons in case of a breakdown, but they will be allowed to descend for repairs and to renew their supply of gasoline.

YORK STATE DEMS QUITE OPTIMISTIC

Party Leaders Gathered at Saratoga to Arrange For Convention, Find Outlook Very Bright.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The members of the Democratic State committee together with a number of other party leaders of prominence assembled at the Grand Union Hotel here today to decide upon the time and place for holding the State convention. The indications are that Saratoga, about September 29, will be decided on for the gathering, although Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse are bidding for the convention.

Among those assembled for the conference the opinion is unanimous that never has the Democratic outlook in New York been more hopeful. The recent reorganization of the State committee, the tenor of the State campaign and the general trend of public sentiment toward the Democratic standard have greatly cheered the party leaders and given them a feeling of confidence in the results of the November election.

The high cost of living, dissatisfaction with the tariff and resentment against the Republicans for alleged mismanagement of State affairs are cited by the Democrats as contributory causes that will insure a bitter contest this fall, with the chances of success favoring their party.

The evident harmony among the Democrats this year, a contrasted with the almost hopelessly divided position of the Republicans is regarded by politicians of both parties as of deep significance. The majority of the Republicans are ready to admit that it was in the great stalwart-hatched feud, and with little prospect at present of being able to get together before election.

The Democrats appreciate the fact that their hopes of success will be greatly strengthened by the choice of an able candidate for governor. Should Mayor Gaynor of New York City survive his wounds he would seem almost a certainty that he will receive the gubernatorial nomination. At present he is the most talked of Democrat in New York. If not in the entire country and his name completely overshadows those of Osborne, Havens and others who have mentioned as possibilities to head the Democratic ticket. The nomination will be made with an eye to the future, as Democratic state politics in New York this fall have a distinct bearing upon Democratic national politics in 1912.

The boom for Gaynor for governor may take such impetus now as to sweep everything aside and result in a genuine demand of the people for his nomination. In such event, the belief is general that the mayor would accept the nomination.

With Governor nominated in such manner, with harmony in the Democratic ranks, barring Hearst's opposition, with the Republicans split into factions, and with the general unrest and resentment of the people against the party in power, the betting odds, it is believed, would be largely in favor of Gaynor carrying New York.

IOWA MAYOR FOUND GUILTY BY JUDGE

Signorini, Ia., Aug. 19.—Judge Wilcockson today handed down an opinion ousting Thomas J. Phillips, mayor of Ottumwa, Iowa. At the trial of the mayor, held recently at Ottumwa, it was claimed by Attorney General Casson, who prosecuted the case, that Phillips was guilty of wilful neglect of duty in permitting resorts and gambling houses to run. Also that the mayor was intoxicated April 30, on both these charges the court finds the mayor guilty. The third charge, that of dishonesty, was dismissed.

Phillips was a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket some years ago.

WAS GRADING WORK SIMPLY A BLUFF?

Edgerton People Amused At Efforts of the Cincinnati Construction Co. to Save Certified Check.

Edgerton, Aug. 19.—Have the promoters of the Jamesville to Madison Interurban complied with the law by the work they began on Monday and will they be able to save their certified check for five thousand dollars that they deposited with the city officials to hold their franchise open or not? Work purporting to be in the interest of the Cincinnati Construction company on the Jamesville-Madison Interurban line, was begun Monday morning in excavating for the grade on the hill at the east end of Front street, where the profile calls for a four foot cut of the street. The work was under the direction of Steve Madden, who had a half dozen teams hauling away the bank, which after a thin top dressing was removed, consisted of pure white sand, so if it was easy digging the promoters were looking for they found it. People who have been anxiously waiting for the past two years to see the "dirt fly" on the proposed line could have had their hopes realized had they been present Monday when Steve and his gang were in operation. And yet there are people who are skeptical enough to believe that this demonstration was simply a bluff to hold on to the franchise, which required active work to be started within thirty days from the filing of the $5,000 bond with the city. At any rate the promoters have complied with the conditions for work has been started even though Madden has been hauling back a top dressing to repair that portion of the street torn up. Just how long we are to be held in suspense over the entire proposition is problematical. If you don't look for interurban cars right away you will not be disappointed.

Stuart Jeleff, Who Has Long Criminal Record, Thought to Have Been in League With Phil, Allen.

Osceola, Wis., Aug. 19.—Stuart Jeleff, alias J. Wilson, is in the county jail here accused of blowing the safe of the Osceola Mercantile company. Jeleff, it is now known, is the son of a former prominent real estate dealer of Ripon, Wis., who has served terms in prison and who has been reported to be connected with many other crimes, in which there was no direct evidence against him.

In 1901 he was convicted at Mineral Point and sent to the Green Bay reformatory for four years for the blowing of the safe in the First National bank, which was recently wrecked by Phil Allen.

After serving his time there he was arrested at Oshkosh for carrying concealed weapons and the police sent him to Waupun for a year. They believed at Oshkosh that they prevented a bank robbery by their early arrest of the man.

Since the Allen affair at Mineral Point, it has been hinted that he was in a den with Jeleff, there known as Winters, to rob the bank to conceal Allen's own stealings from the bank.

EVOLVES NEW SYSTEM OF WIRELESS COMMUNICATION

Inventive Genius Will Use English Sparrows to Carry Messages.

Perhaps, Assistant Storekeeper Frank Hennings has evolved a new system of long distance communication that has anything in the wireless line calling for help. While the inventor has had no technical training, he is wide awake and has realized the possibilities of the great numbers of English sparrows that make their home in the roundhouse. He has already perfected an appliance to capture these willing little workers and attach messages to their legs. All that now remains is to make sure that they will take the messages where desired. But this is considered a minor difficulty. He has already thought of sending them by mail but may adopt some other plan.

EUROPE'S GRAND OLD MAN TO CELEBRATE EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria and Crown Prince Francis Ferdinand.

On August 18, "Europe's Grand Old Man," Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria, and king of Hungary, celebrated his eightieth birthday. He has reigned longer than any great ruler of modern times, except Victoria, and next December will have completed the sixty-second year of his reign. With the exception of President Diaz of Mexico, he is the oldest government head.

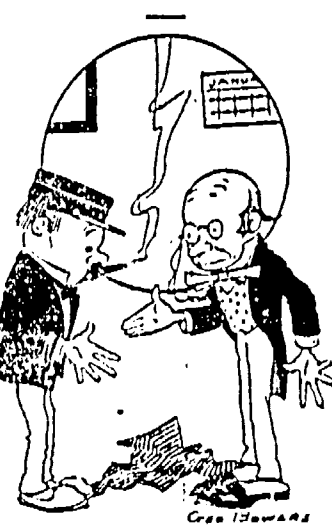

In spite of the many constant worries of state and household, he is still strong and hearty and even during the sessions of court at Vienna he is up at 5 every morning. He attributes his long life to his habits of early rising and living in the open air. It is now expected that Crown Prince Francis Ferdinand will succeed him should Emperor Joseph be suddenly taken away.

The Pipes.

It was at a seaside resort, and along the board walk came marching a band of Highland bagpipers in full costume. They were tremendous fellows, but their music, to my untutored ears, was like the squealings of forty stuck pigs. Yet I have never heard strains to compare with theirs for arousing a desire to die for one's country. I think the bagpipe music must have been fashioned back in the old days by some demon of perversity out of the whistle of arrows, the clash of cymores, the neighing of war-steeds, and the shrieks of the dying. When I hear it I think of the wheel of fortune, the Car of Juggernaut, the mills of the gods, and the inquisitorial rack and screw. It whirrs along with a cyclonic rhythm that sets the feet to tramping and the blood to boiling.

"Pedler's Acre."

Lambeth (Eng.) "Old" Church has numerous historic monuments, and in one of the windows is the full length figure of a pedler with his pack, staff and dog. This is supposed to represent the unknown person who presented "Pedler's Acre" to the parish upon condition that his portrait and that of his beloved canine companion should be preserved in the church and that his dog should be buried in consecrated ground.

Over-Confidence Only Peril.

The only peril which now confronts the Republicans is over-confidence, and the campaign managers may be relied on to keep this feeling from getting into dangerous shape. The record which congress has made in the session which closes a few days hence will furnish a striking tribute to the Republicans as a party which carry out their pledges, in spirit as well as in letter.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WHITE HOUSE Bargain Counters

CASH

In the beginning let us ask you whether or not you know Cash? It is probably a foolish question, for everyone from the smallest child to the oldest person in the world knows Cash. Some know him well, some not so well and there are some who have not met him in years. He is a very deceitful person, is Cash, for he is always your friend while he is with you but he changes friends often and he has no sympathy for you after he has gone from you.

Well, when Cash smiles upon you do not waste any time in debating what to do to entertain him, for of all of the places where he is welcome there is one where through his influence you can get good serviceable merchandise which will be a good fair substitute for Cash friendship.

Do you know this place where Cash gets you more and better lasting friends than any other place? It is that second place friend (for even we must give first place to fickle Cash) the Bargain Counters.

Let us ask you our second foolish question: Are you going to lose your friend and have nothing or very little left to remember him? You are not, we will answer for you. You are going to come to us and take advantage of the bargains which we quote below and to let us show you several others which are equally good.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE GAZETTE

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO THIS WEEK PAPER WAS FOUND-ED.

FIRST ISSUE, AUGUST '45

Its Owners Since That Date—Improvements Made and Present Equipment Briefly Discussed.

It is fitting at this time of commemorating the sixty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Janesville Gazette to give a brief bit of the history of this newspaper. The Gazette is one of the oldest newspapers in the middle west that has had a continuous existence under the same name of a like period.

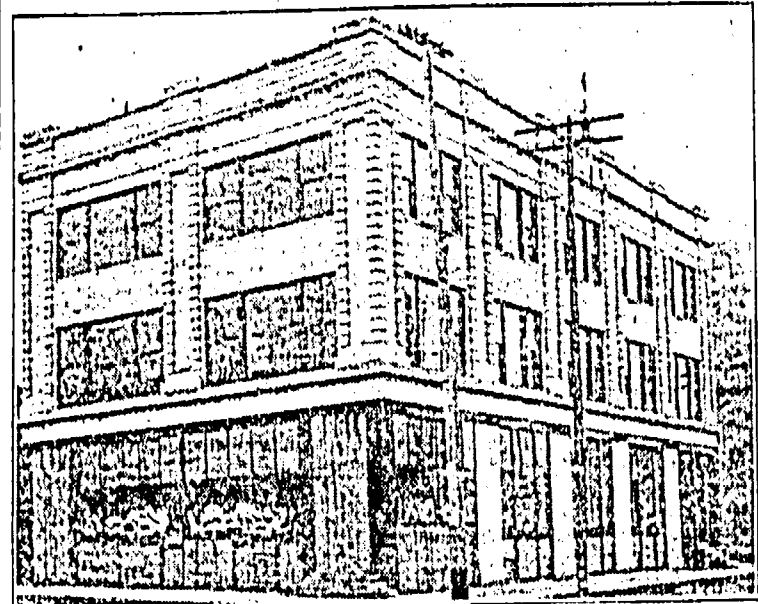

On the 14th day of August, 1845, the first number of the Janesville Gazette was published by Levi Alden and A. E. Stoddard. The facilities purchase of the Free Press when a Guernsey was obtained. With this press five hundred papers an hour could be printed. The location of the shop was also moved, this time crossing the river to the building where Herbert Holmes' store now is. They remained here but a short time however, returning to the east side of the stream the following year and locating in the Laphin block, where the Hayes block stands.

Previous to this the paper had been a morning sheet but now the change was made and it became an evening paper. While in politics since its foundation, it became republican in 1861 when that party was formed and has never changed its politics.

About this time Mr. Wilcox became a member of the firm which was known as Holt, Bowen and Wilcox. Mr. Alden having retired. In 1861, Thompson and Roberts purchased the paper and it was during their ownership that the establishment was moved to North Main street, in the Holldredge block where it remained until moved to its present home in the Roswell building.

A new press was secured with this change, a two revolution cylinder

for handling the news and printing the paper were meagre. Janesville was a frontier town, a struggling village. Mr. Alden had come from the east bringing with him an old fashioned hand press. By good luck work two hundred and forty papers could be printed in an hour and this meant extra labor and lots of muscle.

Mr. Stoddard soon retired from the paper, selling his interest to W. F. Thompson. The first office was in the second story of the block that stood where the People's Drug Company and Rock County bank now are located. In 1846 Thompson tired of the work and sold to Mr. Alden, who became sole proprietor for a time, later associating W. H. Gratton with him in the business.

During this period Ellis Doty was foreman of the news room. Later Stoddard, O. P. Martin and then Charles Holt. In 1848 Holt bought a half interest from Mr. Alden and the firm name was changed to Alden & Holt and the office moved from its old quarters to the Empire block over what is now Sutherland's book store. Meanwhile the old hand press was used and it was not until 1853 that a different one was secured through Taylor. Rumor has it that this press was built for the Philadelphia Ledger, also saw service on the Detroit Free Press before coming to Janesville. How be it, it proved a good investment and was used for many years in publishing the Gazette.

In the early 70's, Colvin & Bluff became the owners, continuing the same policy as previously. In 1883 H. E. Bliss and William Bladen, purchased of R. L. Colvin the controlling interest in the paper. Nicholas Smith was at that time a stockholder and editor, retiring about 1890. J. C. Wilmath and J. G. Hayner became stockholders at this time. In 1891 Mr. Bladen retired from the company. H. E. Nowlan became a stockholder and secretary in 1898.

The old Taylor press gave way in 1882 to a Cottrell which was later displaced by a Dispatch press, this in turn being replaced by a Duplex press in the fall of 1903.

The organization of the Gazette Printing Company, at present, includes H. E. Bliss, President and Treasurer; C. S. Bliss, Vice President and H. H. Bliss, Secretary. The work is divided into different departments, each department having its own head.

CIRCUS DERELICT WAS GIVEN TRANSPORTATION

Charles Staffers Who Asks For Help at Evansville Brought Here and Put on Train For Chicago.

In response to a call from the police authorities at Evansville, Paormaster Asa Anderson went thither this morning and brought Charles Staffers, a down and out circus employee, to Janesville. The man was suffering with various ailments and appeared to be mentally unbalanced. After an examination by the city physician, Dr. Charles Sutherland, he was provided with transportation to Chicago and sent on his way. According to the paormaster, Staffers "ate" about a pound of tobacco on his way to Janesville. He complained of a badly sprained ankle but seemed to have little trouble in walking. At the conclusion of the examination, the cheerful stranger made a genial effort to "touch" Dr. Sutherland for ten cents.

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS.

Sixty-five years ago, the 14th day of August, the first issue of the Janesville Gazette appeared and since that date there has been an uninterrupted and continuous publication of this paper. Wisconsin in those days was a territory—Janesville but a village. Stage coaches connected it with the outside world and now settlers stopped here on their way to new homes in the interior of the state. Even then Janesville was one of the main arteries of trade into the new Wisconsin territory.
Levi Alden and J. A. Stoddard came to the struggling little community on the banks of the Rock and started their newspaper, one of the first in the state. It was a venture, but fortune favored them and from the little Washington hand-press, that by hard work of the apprentices, could print two hundred and forty papers an hour, the Gazette of today is equipped with a press that can print fifty-five hundred papers an hour of eight pages, folded and ready for delivery.
Few papers established in this early day of the middle west have survived the strain of time and are still on the lists of continuous publications. From the scattering village of 1845, Janesville today is a city of promise, the leading commercial and railroad center of the southern portion of the state. Handsome buildings, fine streets, good schools, stately churches and costly municipal, county and government buildings have taken the place of the small homes, narrow streets and frame structures.
From the paper published weekly with twenty-four columns, the Gazette has grown to a daily of from fifty-six to a hundred and twelve columns, advertising demands increased space, receiving its news by delayed mails and from newspapers published in eastern communities at its inception, the Gazette of today is a member of the Associated Press, a subscriber of the United Press association, a member of the North American Syndicate and has over a hundred correspondents in Rock, Dane and Green counties furnishing the news of both rural, village and cities.
On the 14th day of August, 1845, the Gazette made its first appearance, its bow to the public, printed by hand-set composition, its editors writing the news, then setting it into type and later running the little hand-press, folding the copies by hand and sealing that they were delivered. Today a large force of men are employed in each department of the paper, in the editorial, the business office, the news room and the press department. Each department has its individual work to do and modern methods have taken the place of the old-time labor. Linotype has supplanted the hand-set composition and electrically-driven presses the old hand press. The world has grown and the Gazette has grown with it.

Founded on the principles of the Whig doctrine it became an adherent of the republican principles when that party was organized and has since remained true to the principles of that party. While its editorial policies may have differed with some of the state issues, it has always supported the national republican doctrine.
Established in a little struggling western village it has been loyal to the growing community and has played its part in the growth in wealth and population of Janesville and Rock county. With the passing of the years its scope of circulation has widened until it practically covers the entire county and even sends its copies daily, and semi-weekly, in the adjacent districts.
Sixty-five years is a long period of time to look back upon; it marks more than the average life of man. Wars have been fought, citizens have been born, risen to prominence and passed to the world beyond. The files of the Gazette tell of the history of life as no other volumes can. Week by week, and later, day by day, the Gazette has published the happenings, told of the happiness and the sorrows of the residents of the city and county.
It has marked the coming and going of great men, has told the world of the happenings here and abroad; has seen Wisconsin grow from a territory into a state—a state rich in resources and wealth. Has marked the coming of the first steam railroad into the territory and the construction of the factories and industries that go to make up the civil life.
A review of the years, as found in its columns, but increases the belief in the new slogan adopted by the Industrial and Commercial club, "You'll Succeed in Janesville."

THE NATION'S POPULATION.
Janesville, with other cities, is most anxious to learn the result of the recent census enumeration. The delay in learning the results is easily explained when it is understood that the greatest precautions are being made to prevent mistakes. Milwaukee received its report yesterday and showed a decided increase in the past ten years. It may be that Janesville will have its figures within a short time. However, only the extremely cautious will be inclined to find fault with the policy of deliberation pursued by the census bureau. It is manifestly the purpose of the director to make unnecessary, or impossible, the recounts that have had to be carried on at great expense and great loss of time, and never with results wholly satisfactory, in connection with previous enumerations. Many means of verifying and checking census returns have become known in recent years, and by following a set of well-defined rules, and following them carefully and patiently, the frauds that have been perpetrated on the enumerators, or with the connivance of the enumerators, from decade to decade can this time be avoided.
There is really no hurry, providing always that the work be carried on with reasonable expedition. This we are promised it will be. The population of the country, of the several states and of the great majority of the large cities and towns will be made known before October next. Many returns on the large cities will be published earlier. The main facts brought out by the census will be at the disposal of almanac handbooks and encyclopedia compilers in ample time for 1911 editions.
In the meantime, there will be no limit to the opportunity for conjecture. The percentages of gain by decades from 1850 to 1900 have been 35.86, 35.85, 22.65, 30.08, 21.09, 21. The population of the United States at that time has increased by decennial periods from 23,191,876 to 31,435,221, to 38,558,371, to 50,155,783, to 63,622,250, and to 76,203,387. It is reported that the census officials are inclined to side with popular expectation and to look for a population of 90,000,000 now.

One fruitful source of disappointment, both as regards local and national gains for many years, has been due to the proclivity to use liberal round figures in making future estimates. Thus, Americans talked of 50,000,000 in the decade that gave them only little more than 38,000,000; of 60,000,000 in the decade that gave them only 50,000,000; of 70,000,000 when they reached only 62,000,000; of 80,000,000 when they had only 76,000,000. They have been indulging upon 90,000,000 for the last five years. This would mean an increase of about 14,000,000 in the decade. Perhaps the figures will substantiate this claim, but it will do no harm to be prepared for a showing that will be less responsive to the desire for growth and more in accord with the unsentimental law of averages.

THE GREATEST TASK.
When all is said, the most difficult and most important task undertaken by President Taft is that of preventing waste of public money in the conduct of the government. That this waste is notorious and scandalous is made evident not only by the remarks of veteran and observant public men like Senator Aldrich and Representatives Tawney and McCall, but by statements from the President himself. "If I were a business man and were given permission to manage the affairs of the government," said the senior Rhode Island senator a few months ago, "I would run them for $300,000,000 a year less than it is now costing." A carefully revised statement of the appropriations for the last session, notwithstanding the indignant denials made earlier by leaders of the majority, places them above a billion. Representative McCall, who is not given to the making of sensational assertions, said recently with reference to a published summary of appropriations for the last dozen years that the situation is one that makes the most serious demands upon the statesmanship of the nation. Touching upon one feature in particular, after alluding to the cost of the Panama canal and the harbor improvements, he said: "The great increases are in our military establishments and these are largely due directly to our going into 'world power' business. When we embarked upon a policy which might make it necessary for us to defend ourselves on the other side of the Pacific, we changed our military problem, and it remains to this day as deep a mystery as ever just what advantages the reversal of our traditional policy has brought either to the United States or to the general interests of civilization." However, this may be, the nation has assumed responsibilities, and must shoulder them, but there should not be made an excuse for indulgence in unnecessary extravagance. The oriental policy does not explain everything. The cost of operating every department of the government has increased out of all proportion to any apparent increase in the efficiency of the service rendered.

"It matters little," says Mr. McCall, "who pays the taxes in the first instance, the burden of $4,000,000 expended in four years will rest heavily upon those who are least able to bear it." President Taft has set himself the task of ameliorating this burden. He can do so only by introducing economies into every department of his administration. While he is striving to do this, a movement to add another expensive department to those already in existence cannot be welcomed by him or by any well-wisher of the country. Retrenchment is absolutely necessary now if expense would not be given for a new house of life to a tariff system that has become obnoxious and for the imposition of new and burdensome internal taxation.

One of the Milwaukee papers of the "yellow" variety, comments upon the slogan of the Industrial and Commercial club, "You'll Succeed in Janesville," by calling it guff and asking of the people of Janesville really believe in it? This is a fine example of sisterly love on the part of a paper supposedly trying to boost the state in which it got its bread and butter and it is to be hoped that it does not express the sentiment of Milwaukee people generally.
E. T. Fairchild still continues to increase his state-wide popularity by his talks to voters in all parts of the seventy counties that constitute the limit of his endeavors. Mr. Fairchild makes no bones of placing his position on national and state issues squarely before the voters without any pretense at concealment. This practice is making him friends wherever he goes.
Game birds are already shooting the protected birds on the lakes and rivers. Recently one of this variety, of bears was fired heavily in a White-water court. His companion in the act is said to have escaped owing to a political pull. Too bad that both could not have been made to suffer equally.

They do say that up in the wilds of Maine an auto ran into a poor man's peeping bear. It is, however, related as a true story that a Janesville auto party recently ran into a skunk near Lake Koshkonong and the animal was not appreciative of the mixture of art and nature.

Local political aspirants are taking no chances these days not to enter to the wishes of the voters of the county. Once every two years this flurry for public favor comes and the rest of the time the community is quite and peaceful.
Edwin Ransom, one of the republican candidates for sheriff, has received the endorsement of some of the leading citizens of the county as to his fitness and capability and it is now up to the voters to endorse him.

The opposition to Whitely is using every method possible to try and discredit him in his district. Mr. Whitely is too good a representative in the assembly to lose and he should be re-nominated without question.
That bridge question is coming up for a vote on Primary day and it is to be hoped that the citizens of Janesville will be sure and vote in favor of it.

Down in the Beloit district the assembly contest is waxing hotter and hotter each day. Thus far Gault stands head above his opponents and it is to be hoped he will be the victor.
That threatened strike of sailors all over the world does not make much of an impression upon the Kansas farmers.

Man will soon be in a position to give the birds of the air a few lessons in aerial navigation.
Used Wife as Beast of Burden.
A man has been sentenced at Prague, Bohemia, to six months' imprisonment for harrassing his wife and dog to his vegetable cart. The woman pleaded that she had herself suggested it as she liked the work, but this did not alter the decision of the magistrate.

I said: "I'll write a masterpiece, a noble song, as sleek as grease, that men will quote long ages hence, when I am TROUBLES planted by the fence, and cockchairs and Jimson weeds above my two-by-seven grave." And so I locked me in my den, and wrestled with a fountain pen for many long and weary weeks, and oft the neighbors heard my shrieks, when I wore out my brain and threw to get a toe-hold on the muse. At last my noble song was done, and printed in the Punkville Sun, and people met me and exclaimed: "We know, old man, you can't be blamed; some coqs have slipped beneath your clutch; you should be at the booby hatch." And then one time I wrote a lay about a brand of shredded hay (which makes red blood, restores your youth, and grows pluk whiskers on each tooth), and got a check for fifty bones. And so I say, in thunder tones, that if you cannot write your name upon the heaven's spangled frame, you may descend, with gentle thud, and write the blamed thing in the mud.

To the Voters of Rock County

I wish of thank you for the interest you are showing in my candidacy for the office of Register of Deeds.
If you are not familiar with my qualifications I will say that I began school teaching and left this work to accept a position in a railway office, where I worked ten years as bookkeeper and agent.
I have held my present position as town clerk for the past ten years, and during the last four years have spent the greater part of each year working as bookkeeper for the Rock County Sugar Co., my farm requiring the balance of my time.
This office experience will undoubtedly prove a valuable help to me in discharging the duties of Register of Deeds should I be elected to that office.
Let me urge you to attend the Primary Election Tuesday, September 6, 1910, and ask you to call the attention of your friends to the importance of voting on Primary Day.

DISCOVER INFANT DEAD AND AGED-WOMAN CUT

Mrs. Dorothy Bartlett Declares Man
Murdered Child and Cut Her Throat.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Returning home from a shopping trip, Mrs. E. H. Fort, 400 North Dearborn, discovered the body of her infant daughter, Katherine, nine months old, dead, apparently from strangulation.

Medical aid was immediately called and it was declared by doctors that Mrs. Bartlett has a chance of recovery. She told the police that her granddaughter had been brutally murdered and she herself attacked by a man who, she says, was concealed in the building.

A careful examination of the baby's body revealed that the child had been smothered to death instead of strangled.

In an effort to solve the mystery search was at once instituted for a man answering a description given by the aged woman during brief intervals of consciousness.

Mrs. Bartlett has been suffering from what are described as severe pains in the head for some months, it was learned by the police.

TAFT PUNISHES FOUR CADETS.

Commutes Sentence of Dismissal But Approves One Almost as Severe.

New York, Aug. 19.—Four West Point cadets, all members of the first or second senior class at the military academy, who have been on trial before general court-martial for several weeks past charged with drinking milk punch, have been found guilty and their dismissal from the academy has been recommended to the president. The papers have been submitted to the president by Adjutant General Alsworth, and the president, after reading the evidence, has approved the sentence and commuted it to what perhaps is the severest punishment not involving dismissal in the history of the academy.

The cadets are Wilfred Mason Blunt of Maryland, Charles Laurence Byrne of Washington, D. C.; Harry James Keeley of Illinois, and Bethel Wood Simpson of Michigan.

At the present time the cadets are in camp and the president ordered that Byrne, Blunt, Simpson and Keeley be confined to their company street until the close of the encampment, which will be Saturday, and that after that and up to and including March 31, 1911, they be confined to the area of the cadet barracks and gymnasium.

The president also ordered that each of the cadets must walk "armed and equipped as soldiers," in the area of the barracks every Wednesday, from four p. m. until parade (5:30 p. m.) and every Saturday from two p. m. until parade call.

Contract Holder McMurray Contradicts
Senator Gore's Charges.

Sulphur, Okla., Aug. 19.—J. F. McMurray, holder of contracts for the sale of Chickasaw and Choctaw lands which would net his law firm $3,000, 000 on a contingent fee basis, was on the stand before the congressional committee of investigation. He was questioned by Cecil H. Smith, his counsel, who put this question:

"It has been charged that you, through Jake L. Hamon, offered Senator T. P. Gore $25,000 or $50,000 as a bribe to influence him in congress to withdraw opposition to the approval of your contract. Did you or did you not offer Senator Gore such a bribe?"

"No," replied the witness vehemently.

"Did you ever tell anyone that Vice-President Sherman had any interest in your contract?"

"I never did."

"Did you authorize Hamon to say Mr. Sherman was interested?"

"I did not."

PLOTS TO OVERTHROW MADRIZ.

Mme. Zelaya Is Shipped Out of Country—
Government Saved.

San Jose, Costa Rica, Aug. 19.—Quick work on the part of President Madriz of Nicaragua prevented the overthrow of his government, according to unquestionable information. Mme. Zelaya, wife of the deposed president of Nicaragua, organized the conspiracy to overthrow Madriz and install Doctor Irujo. One of the trusted followers of Mme. Zelaya got drunk and gave the plot away. Mme. Zelaya was placed on the steamer San Jose, bound from Corinto to Panama, with a through ticket to Europe. Doctor Irujo, who held a place in the Madriz cabinet, was invited to resign and the lesser figures were thrown into prison.

Captain Mikkelson and the entire party were saved and landed on Shannon Island, off the coast of King William land. From this point they were recently rescued by another ship.

WASHINGTON STATUE DEDICATED IN FRANCE

Bronze Replica Presented by Virginia
Is Placed in Chateau of Versailles.

Versailles, France, Aug. 19.—With appropriate ceremonies the bronze replica of Houdon's celebrated statue of George Washington was dedicated in Napoleon hall of the Chateau of Versailles in the presence of the French minister of war, General Brun; the French ambassador to the United States, M. Jusserand, and his wife, and the American ambassador, Robert Bacon, and Mrs. Bacon; the marquis de Lafayette, the members of the French ministry which presented to America the statue of Rochambeau, now at Washington, and former United States Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia.

General Hiron, who presided, spoke of the statue as the greatest work of the greatest French sculptor of the eighteenth century. Col. James Mann, chairman of the Virginia commission, delivered the speech of presentation. State Senators Don P. Halsey and P. W. King of Virginia also made addresses on behalf of the state of Virginia.

Ambassador Jusserand, in the absence of the French minister for foreign affairs, M. Pichon, accepted the statue on behalf of the French government. He declared that the friendship of General Washington and of the American people constituted one of the glories of France. It was, therefore, singularly appropriate that this statue, "the third erected on French soil by our ancient allies, should be placed in the palace consecrated to all our glories."

Paris, Aug. 19.—The marriage of the Baroness Vaughan, widow of King Leopold, to Emmanuel Dureux took place at Arronville, near Ballincourt, the residence of the baroness.

The baroness wore a black dress, purple hat, and thick veil. She and M. Dureux tried to bask the cameras by holding handkerchiefs to their faces. They were intensely annoyed to find that their attempts at secrecy had failed.

GRANT UPHOLDS CANTEN LAW.

Eastern Commander Declares Saloons
Near Camps Decrease.

Pino Camp, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, U. S. A., commanding the department of the east and now in charge of the combined army and militia maneuvers here, gave out a statement of his experience with the workings of the present prohibitory canteen law at this encampment.

"I believe the canteen is better left out of the army," said the general. "Many people have the idea that because there is no way under the present law for a soldier to get liquor within camp limits, dives and low saloons about the outskirts of the camp must thrive. Such is not the case."

"The other night I made a round of all the outside grogshops and I found that the customers were generally civilians. Wherever I found a soldier he was almost always a militiaman and not a regular. The fact that many of these places have gone out of business purely because they could not get customers enough shows that my inference is correct."

COUNTLESS DANCES BAREFOOTED.

Remarkable Entertainment Is Given
for Society at Newport.

Newport, L. I., Aug. 19.—The young and handsome wife of James B. Hagglin, perhaps the best-known turfman in America, gave one of the most notable entertainments last night ever given here at a private house.

Mrs. Hagglin made the sensation of many years. She engaged a countess to dance in her bare feet and gave carte blanche to florist and enterer.

Her dinner guests numbered 100, and later 100 more of the elite called to see Countess Tharmara do Swirly dance in her pink-white feet. The florist has been working on the decorations for several days. Mr. Hagglin and his wife were congratulated on all sides. It was from every point of view one of the most spectacular and sensational entertainments ever given in Newport.

All the leading cottagers were present.

Boston Has $400,000 Fire.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

When George Washington Cried
Before Robert Morris.

General Broke Down, Fearing He Would Lose the Battle of the Brandywine Unless Discouraged Soldiers Were Paid.

BY E. J. EDWARDS.

A year or so before the venerable C. C. Clarke, now in his eighty-eighth year, retired, in 1900, as vice-president of the New York Central railroad, he called me into his office and pointed to a paragraph in a newspaper containing some reference to Robert Morris, the financier of the American revolution.

"In the late thirties when I went to college in Geneva, N. Y.," said Mr. Clarke, "I made the acquaintance of a man of the name of Brown, who had for years been postmaster of the village, and who was then well along in the eighties. In the course of this acquaintance I found out that he had been a clerk in the office of Robert Morris at the time when he was exhausting his fortune in behalf of the fighting colonies, and many an hour I spent with the old man listening to his anecdotes of the great financier. And then, one day, my aged friend told me this story of Robert Morris and George Washington, which I have never seen in print."

"One afternoon, shortly before the battle of the Brandywine, which took place in the fall of '77," said Mr. Brown, "General Washington, untended, came to Mr. Morris' office. He seemed to be in great anxiety, and he listened to explain to Mr. Morris that unless he could have some money with which to make at least a partial payment to his soldiers, he did not believe that it would be possible for him to gain a victory in the approaching battle. The soldiers, he said, had been many months without pay. They had endured many hardships. Their privations, their dire need of money had in a measure demoralized and discouraged them."

"And right here, and all of a sudden," said Mr. Brown, "General Washington broke down completely. He put his hands to his face so that he might conceal his emotion, but I saw the tears trickling down between his hands. He was completely overcome, and I was so awe-stricken at the spectacle of the commander-in-chief of the Continental army in tears that I stood as though I were transfixed to the floor. I looked at Mr. Morris, to see how he was affected, and found him trying to relieve the situation by appearing to be busy arranging some papers that had been spread before him prior to General Washington's entrance. Then, as suddenly as he had broken down, General Washington regained his composure, and went on to say that if Mr. Morris could find within twenty-four hours sufficient money to pay each man in the army a little of what was due him, this payment would do much to revive the army's courage and morals, and, if this were accomplished, there was little doubt but that the British would be held in check."

"For a moment Mr. Morris was silent; then he replied that he himself was without funds, that he did not know where he could raise even the small amount asked on such short notice, but that he would do the best he could, adding that he did not feel justified in encouraging any hope in General Washington's breast that the money could be secured."

"General Washington's reply was simple. 'I know that you will do all you can—as you have done already,' he said. Then he took Mr. Morris' hand, held it for a moment, and went away without again speaking."

"I never knew whether Mr. Morris secured the money or not," Mr. Brown added. "I do know that he went out of the office immediately after General Washington had departed. Two days later, I think it was, the battle of Brandywine was fought. General Washington was defeated, and the British occupied Philadelphia. Maybe it was all because Mr. Morris was not able to get for General Washington the little money that he needed so badly for his soldiers. But I cannot say for a certainty."

New Uses for Alcohol.

The Germans, having no natural supply of petroleum or natural gas, have sought a substitute for these fuels in alcohol, which they can produce cheaply from the potatoes that luxuriate in the sandy plains of their country.

The result was seen in an exhibition of the industrial appliances of alcohol in Berlin, where there were shown alcohol driven motors for stationary engines as well as for automobile engines, portable alcohol engines for farm work, domestic utensils, such as flatirons, heated by alcohol; alcohol cooking ranges, incandescent lamps for house or street use, in which the mantle is combined with an alcohol flame, and many exhibits of chemical preparations derived from alcohol.

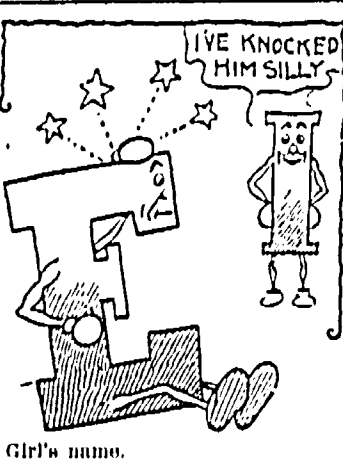

Although as a fuel alcohol has theoretically only three-fifths of the heating value of petroleum, it has been found that for motor purposes 28 per cent. of the theoretical energy of alcohol can be utilized as against only 15 per cent. in the case of petroleum.

IN furniture buying more than anything else quality is of vast importance, because the article purchased is to be of service for years to come.

It is the aim of this store to make its selections of furniture more with a view to actual worth of each piece than to merely compete on a basis of "cheapness" in price.

Every article on our three floors, comprising the largest display of furniture in southern Wisconsin, exemplifies our motto.

"NOT HOW CHEAP, BUT HOW GOOD."

Fall shipments are beginning to arrive each week, and our showings are already assuming an air of newness.

Worthy of especial attention is the display of Circassian Walnut Bed Room Furniture. You will note the elegant color of the wood, the beautiful grain and dull finish. The soft rich finish of Circassian Walnut lends itself particularly to the making of bed room furniture. We show modern Beds, Dressers, Chiffoniers and Chairs in this new Circassian Walnut.

Sanitary Box Springs and Mattresses are also displayed, the best this country produces at popular prices.

In our window will be seen a display of fine Kitchen Cabinets.

Cultivate Your Field

Life is just a matter of farming—of finding a fertile soil in a good field—of breaking ground and being patient. The harvesting comes last—the main work must be done while least results are showing.

Many a man has lost out just because he wasn't patient enough to wait until well planted endeavor had time to sprout.

When you find the great majority of Janesville's business men all doing one certain thing to increase their business, and when for a great number of years they continue to do this one thing, you may rest assured that it has proven a fertile soil in a good field.

If there is one thing more than another done by Janesville's merchants it is ing in The Gazette will bring you in touch with almost every prospective buyer in this community.

If your business is bad, or dishonest, or behind the times, the best advertising in the world won't help you.

One man hired a solicitor at $20.00 per week to call on the women of Janesville to sell his goods. The solicitor did well—so well in fact that he went in to the same business on his own account.

Then the man employed Gazette advertising, reaching all the women every day for six weeks. He found that $40.00 in six weeks got better results than his $20.00 per week solicitor.

Many men expect $5.00 worth of advertising to do the work of a $20.00 man.

EMMANUEL TO AID FIGHT THE PLAGUE

ITALY'S KING AND QUEEN MAY VISIT CHOLERA STRICKEN DISTRICT.

POPE ALSO IS STIRRED

Epidemic is Declared to Be of the Most Virulent Type—Deaths Are Increasing and Ignorant Inhabitants Bordering on Panic.

Turin, Aug. 19.—The outbreak of cholera in southern Italy is causing King-Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena much anxiety. His majesty has given strict orders that he be kept informed on the conditions in the scourge-swept territory.

The queen is especially touched by the stories of the distress among the people of the province of Bari Della Puglia and has made inquiries regarding their needs, ordering that assistance be rendered them, for which she will pay from her private purse.

The king has already intimated his intention of visiting his father, who Queen Helena.

In 1885, fearless of danger, proceeded to Naples and remained among the cholera patients, who were dying at the rate of a thousand daily.

Queen Will Go Also.

It would be a serious thing if the king determined to proceed to the cholera district, for the queen has positively declared that she would share the risks of the king.

Her majesty accompanied the king to Messina and to Avellino, when they were overthrown by earthquakes, and on those occasions she insisted upon being at the front, not sparing herself any hardship.

Death Toll Piling Up.

The pope has sent instruction to all the bishops in the infected territory to employ every means in their power to aid in combatting the scourge.

The gravity of the situation in the province of Bari Della Puglia is thoroughly appreciated by the Italian government.

The town of Trani is badly infected and in 44 deaths reported in the latest advices 20 have occurred in that place. There have been ten deaths at Barletta, one at Cerigliola, two at San Ferdinando, one at Marozio, four at Margherita di Savola, three at Andria and three at Trinitapoli.

Public Gatherings Stopped.

Doctor Ruetli, who has been sent from Rome to direct the work of sanitation, has been appointed a royal commissioner with full powers. Decrees have been issued forbidding fairs, processions, feasts and public meetings.

The authorities express confidence that the physicians now in charge of the various infected districts will be able to stay the progress of the disease, but so far the death rate has been very high, those attacked in many instances dying within a few hours.

Is of Virulent Type.

The present epidemic, therefore, is of a virulent type, and as it has so far proved a strong foothold the general fear is held that it will be difficult to check.

The official announcement of the existence of the epidemic by the government will, it is thought, have a good effect by putting a stop to the exaggerated accounts of the epidemic which have frightened the ignorant inhabitants of southern Italy almost into a panic.

MITCHELL AND LEWIS CLASH.

Illinois Strike Controversy Is Referred to Special Committee.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 19.—With the Illinois coal strike dispute as the underlying cause, John Mitchell, former head of the miners' union, and President Thomas L. Lewis clashed at the miners' convention. Mr. Mitchell came out flatly in favor of the demands of the Peoria convention. President Lewis, in a hot reply, severely criticized the acts of the former head of the miners in the anthracite coal strike in 1902.

The entire subject of the Illinois strike controversy was referred to a special committee appointed by President Lewis. Final committee hearings will be held today and the probability is that a report will be presented to the convention for action this evening. The action to refer was taken on a motion by Mr. Mitchell.

SCULLER ARNST DEFEATS BARRY

Wins Championship Boat Race on Zambezi River in Rhodesia.

Livingstone, Rhodesia, Aug. 19.—The sculling match for the championship of the world between Richard Arnst of New Zealand and Ernest Barry of London was won by Arnst, the champion, by two lengths. The race was rowed on the Zambezi river, a short distance from the famous Victoria Falls, over a course of three and a half miles. The stakes were $2,500 a side.

For two-thirds of the course there was little to choose between the scullers. Before reaching the end of the third mile, however, Arnst wore down the London champion and took the lead. Barry was unable to rally and practically gave up the race 200 yards from the finish.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 19.—Mrs. W. H. Felton, the aged widow of a once distinguished Georgia congressman, won her fight against the Louisville & Nashville railroad to compel the rebuilding of a side track at Feltonia, a small station on her plantation near Cartersville.

Mrs. Felton, opposed by 15 railroad attorneys, argued her complaint before the Georgia railroad commission, and the commission handed down its decision ordering that the side track on her property be immediately restored.

THOSE BUSY NEW YORKERS

How They Drive and Rush and Their Waste Valuable Hours in Idleness.

How they do drive and rush and sweat to be sure; falling over each other, tramping each other down in their mad struggle to get ahead in the pursuit of the round, rolling dollar, just beyond the reach of their grasping claws.

How they run up the stairs of the elevated railroads! How they cannot be persuaded—any of 'em—to wait for the next surface car, but cling pertinaciously to the step and engorge the doorways! How they pack and jam the subway stairs and platforms in a surging mob, shoudering like football players, crushing little children, subjecting men and women alike to the most ardent outrages in the intrusion upon each other. How busy, how hurried they are. There is not time enough in the day for them; they are driven by whips of worse than scorpions, and they leap and run and scourg, breathless and panting, in their strife for precedence, the New York Evening Sun says.

And yet—several thousand persons, men, women and boys, on their hurried way to their frantic toil recently, stopped for an hour or two or three to gaze at the empty air in front of the city hall, because it had been advertised that a man would start some time today from that spot and walk to California. It is heaven's mercy that no cat happened to get up a tree anywhere in town last night, nor any dog was heard yelping at a closed window, nor any bird with a broken wing was to be seen anywhere, nor any man started to mend a chimney or a lofty flagstaff. If any or all of these tremendous cataclysms had occurred at the same time with the post-train's departure half the working population of New York might have been smitten motionless, and stood staring for hours in the effort to quench their magnificent curiosity.

Sugar for Horses.

Good results are said to have been obtained in France from the feeding of sugar to overworked horses. Excessive strain and constant exhaustion as a result of slippery roads were lessened in those animals which were fed sugar daily. Some horses rendered unfit for service by overwork were restored to normal strength by a liberal mixture of sugar with their food.—Our Dumb Animals Magazine

WHERE DOES IT COME FROM?

One thing is particularly noticeable about the advertising of Capt. Wm. Mitchell Lewis, candidate for governor, viz: You know where it comes from. Lewis is proud of it for it contains sound sense, logic and facts.

On the other hand, space is being used in some state newspapers by "someone" who is attempting to combat the argument for county option made by Lewis, but who is it?

Where does it come from? Echo answers, but the sound is indistinct.

It "listens" like Connor, and it smells like a brewery.

The Evening Chit-Chat

DO YOU know, I have about come to the conclusion that there is such a thing as a bad temper germ? What makes me think that?

Well, haven't you noticed, when one member of the family has a bad temper spell, an out-with-the-world fit, it seems as if things didn't calm down again until that spell had gone the family rounds?

For all the world like a cold in the head.

Maybe big sister gets it first and snubs mother most superciliously, and snaps at father, and weeps when big brother teases her, and fuses about the food and frets and sulks until everybody wonders where the nice jolly big sister they used to know, has gone.

And then father catches it and has it in his peculiar way, and then little sister and big brother, and finally the maid, have their two or three days when they are at odds with everything and everybody.

Just the way that last winter big brother brought home a cold from the office and everybody in the family had some form of cold before it entirely disappeared.

Only, if this bad temper business is a germ, there must be one way that it's quite different from all other germs.

What's that? Why, that mothers are immune, of course.

"I know you're a good dog, Fido, and I love you, but here we are all alone in this house, and you CAN'T button up the back of my waist."

The pretty little lady in life who apostrophizes her funny little smug-nosed doggie to that effect, won't have to reproach him any more with his inability to cope with buttons.

A way out of the difficulty has been found. And not a very unique way, either. The only remarkable thing about it is that we haven't thought of it before.

Perhaps some of my readers have. But for those who have not, I'll explain.

Simply button the waist half way up the back before you put it on and then get into it by putting your arms up over your head—just as you would with a shirt.

The three or four buttons at the top you can reach with comparative ease. A friend of mine contributed the suggestion and I've just been trying it out, and is certainly works.

Suppose, instead of bucking up to mother or sister or hubby, you try it tomorrow.

"I ought to go home tonight, but I'm going to stay over until tomorrow so that I can go to the market place," a visitor to our city said to me, recently.

"The market place! What possible interest can you have in that?" I queried, in wonder. He is a professor of English literature.

"That's my way of seeing a new city," he explained. "I think the right way to see the people of any city is to go to three places—their market place, their theatres and their churches. There you see three big phases of their life—what they eat, how they amuse themselves, and how they worship."

Isn't that a rather interesting suggestion for voyagers?

Heart to Heart Talks.

RISKED LIFE FOR A BIRD.

William Dayton, a sailor, risked his life in Philadelphia to save a sparrow.

The bird had been caught by a tangled kite string in the top of a large sycamore tree, where it fluttered helplessly, its cries attracting a crowd.

Dayton threw off his coat and climbed the tree, reaching the top, seventy-five feet from the pavement. The small branches bent beneath his weight. Crawling cautiously, he caught the string and released the bird.

The crowd cheered.

The Humane society gave him a medal.

Whereat somebody may say: "Pooh! Much ado about nothing!"

Perhaps somebody has never read how Abraham Lincoln saved the robin.

It was in the early days when Lincoln, the young lawyer, was riding the Springfield circuit. In those times the judges and the lawyers traveled together—usually on horseback—from town to town where the court was held.

On this day there had been wind and rain. As the horsemen, with many a jest, passed along the road a mother robin was observed to be in much distress. The wind had blown her nest from a nook in the rail fence and scattered her broodlings.

Lincoln dismounted and the others passed on. He picked up the nest, gathered the little brood of nurslings and replaced them, nest and birds, in the place from which they had been blown.

"What have you been doing, Abe?" inquired one of the lawyers, when Lincoln caught up with the party. The latter answered nothing. But there happened to be a witness of the incident who told it in after years.

A little thing?

In the dictionary of Goodness there are no little things!

Even in God's great program there is care for the sparrows. The Father of us all watches over the birds, and not one of them falls to the ground unnoticed. The Great Goodness that directs the vast machinery of the universe does not consider the fall of a sparrow a little thing. And so that Philadelphia sailor, when he rescued the poor bird, and Abraham Lincoln, when he picked up the little robins, was doing a godlike thing.

Why did the people cheer Dayton?

Because in this common sailor they saw something great and good—something of the humanity that was in Lincoln, something of the divinity that was in Christ.

THE FOOD PROBLEM.

By MARY HUSSELL.

Half the world may not know how the other half lives but it is a safe guess that more than half the people of the United States live to eat.

In primitive days man ate to live. Wild animals out merely to support life. It is only in captivity that they over-eat.

But man! Perhaps it is because he has been in captivity so long that the cuts so much. Certainly it is a truth that we as a nation eat too much and think too much about it. Go into any small town and you will find the women are almost rated socially by their ability to cook dainty dishes.

If we desire to entertain a friend we cook an extra dish. We do him the injustice—perhaps—to say by our conduct that he comes for what we are going to feed him—not for the pleasure of a friendly and soul-biting talk. He must have his stomach filled as well.

Cherished recipes are handed down in families like treasured books and pictures. Mother's bread has split families. As for pick and pastry the divorce courts would go out of business should the government place a prohibitive tariff upon such dainties—for if a woman makes them very good her husband spoils his digestion, and if she does not make a success of her efforts to make pick like mothers he ruins her by his growls.

An Englishman wishes that a law might be passed obliging women to undergo an examination as cooks before the marriage license should be granted, and one of the leading women editorial writers takes pains to tell how many husbands are driven to seek pleasure—which seems to mean the small bird and large bottle served with a chorus girl saute—because forsooth the wives they have chosen are not cooks.

Not a man of them all goes to the kitchen to select the wife he promises to cherish. They go to the parlor, and listen to her sing and to her playing. They take her to dances and to the plays, but never—no, never do they allow it to slip out that they are looking for a cook.

There should be an intelligence office run in connection with the divorce courts and the man who complains that his wife could not cook should be compelled to select a wife from the list of Bridgets that have passed the domestic science examination.

I have heard the subject of food discussed through the better part of a meal. Good things that are eaten in one home and evil mixtures served in another furnishing a topic of unending interest to the class of people who live to eat.

Women and men alike are tainted with this vice. It is a poor compliment to a woman to talk about the food as if that were all for which you came to her house. Housewives appreciate a kindly word, and then would prefer to have the conversation upon some more interesting topic.

When we recover a little from this "eat" mania we will entertain our friends more freely. It will be no burden even to the woman who does her own work. We will spend less with the butcher and baker and have more for the pleasant things of life.

Even the advocates of the simple life spend a good deal of time and thought and good hard effort upon the food problem. It is still in its infancy—the reform that is slowly working its way into the homes of all classes. It will mean time for housewives to learn to live in some other part of the house than the kitchen. It will mean money for other purposes than to pay the grocer and butcher.

Science is helping on the good day by telling us the needs of the human system and time will help up to solve one of the greatest problems of the day. In the meantime we can begin to thing along a line higher than our appetites.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

VEGETABLES BEST SOURCE OF MINERAL ELEMENTS.

Plants feed on minerals in the soil, aided by water, air and light, which are equally necessary to the nutrition of animals. Carbon, taken from the air through the leaves and transformed into starch, sugar and oil, is the chief element of animal food; next comes albumen, which is nitrogen in combination with sulphur and other mineral elements, taken through the roots, very largely in beans and peanuts. Smallest in percentage, but none the less essential, are the mineral elements, which enter the plant from the soil, through the roots. These minerals cannot be assimilated except from the animal, as in milk, flesh, eggs, fish, etc., or from plants. Iron, sulphur, calcium, sodium, phosphorus, chlorine (which with sodium forms common salt and is the essential element of the gastric fluid secreted by the stomach) and others are essential to nutrition, and it seems probable that after the infant stage they are best obtained from the vegetable kingdom, for the nutrition of the gorilla and other non-flesh eating quadrupeds seems to be perfect, giving great physical strength, endurance and freedom from disease. Fermentation dissolves the vegetative elements into the air, and the mineral return to the soil. Heat is the most efficient means of decomposition, and excessive cooking is injurious, particularly in coagulating albumen and in reducing the mineral elements to their original inorganic state, in which they cannot be assimilated. Hence the fireless cooker is a step in the right direction.

CHIC SUMMER TOILETTE.

For dressy summer affairs there is a modish toilette of After blue chiffon cloth over silk, the former trimmed with a knee-deep band of black satin. The girdle and sleeve bands are also of satin. Small covered buttons and simulated buttonholes of silk braid trim front of skirt on each side, and there is a design of braid and buttons outlining the square yoke of bodice. The yoke and skirt are white tucked chiffon, as are the lower parts of sleeves.

STRIPED LINEN.

One of the smartest suit seen this summer is made from black striped white linen, cut with very narrow skirt, seamed in the middle front and trimmed at knee depth with a wide tuck in tunic effect. The coat has a bias band as a finish to bottom. Our cut shows the unique running of stripes on shawl collar and sleeve bands.

DAINTY SUMMER FROCK.

One of the daintiest summer frocks is all-over cream embroidered batiste, built on lines suggested in accompanying cut. Girdle and such ends, band at closing on left side and foot hem are a lovely shade of lavender satin. Ribbon of exactly same shade, together with cream lace, trim the large high collar and an exceedingly pretty finish to the frock is the collar and cuffs of finely plaited white mull.

SMART RIDING HABIT.

The motor car has not entirely killed the saddle, and there are still many fair devotees of horse-back riding. A smart habit designed after above model is gray serge. The good-looking coat of hip length has a shawl collar of black moire and inset revers of Patrick's green taffeta.

A gray derby hat is encircled by band of black ribbon.

Renewing Old Picture Frames.

Many old gift picture frames can be much improved by being enameled white, or even in colors to match the paint work. For instance, black and white drawings hung on a brown wall paper may be placed in scarlet frames.

CHANGING NOTES OF BIRDS
Their Calls Vary Decidedly in the Changing Circumstances of Sunshine and Storm.

One of the most interesting features
in the study of bird life is to note
their varying calls in the changing circumstances of sunshine and storm.
The frequent snowfalls of the recent winter have often been heralded by the mournful "cluck-cluck" of the blackbirds as they flock around the doors, looking for the crumbs that custom has led them to expect. The mavis is mostly mute during a storm,
and tells his tale of woe more by his ruffled feathers and drooping wing
than by his voice. His note, however,
is the first to welcome change to warmer weather.

The stormcock, by which is meant
the blue felt or fieldfare, does not frequent the habitation of man, but there is no more certain sign of approach
of severe weather than a flock of these birds flying southward. Their note is an ominous "chuck, chuck," and but
for that they would often pass unnoticed overhead.

The skylark also passes south uttering a timid, twittering note, which will later give place to a gay burst of song. The starlings flock greedily to wherever food is to be found, be it in field or homestead. The first blink of warm sunshine, however, sees them
perched on the eaves, vibrating their wings in a manner no other bird does
and imitating with an air of intense satisfaction the call notes of a host of other birds.

The sparrows which robbed the farmer in the autumn flock toward winter, and their cheerful twitter on the housetops bears faint resemblance to their noisy clamor in the cornfield. The robin seeks his dole with an air of quiet confidence and sometimes rewards us with a burst of song quite out of keeping with his surroundings. The blue tits have no voice to say they are hungry, though
their actions show it, but their spring
note may be heard in the wood lands,
when they forsake our doors for the field and hedgerow.

Brains Rule

This World—

Not muscle, but brains governing muscle.

The quality of brain can be changed by certain selection of food.A food expert perfected a brain-building food by preparing certain elements in wheat and barley in

Grape-Nuts

In it the Potassium Phosphate, obtained from nature's grains (not from the drug shop) is retained
in minute particles. This has an affinity for Albumen, and these two with water make the soft gray matter in the brain and nerve centres.A solid fact you can demonstrate by the use of Grape-Nuts.

BROTHER HEARS CALL OF BLOOD

EIGHT CHILDREN LONG PARTED
MAY BE REUNITED SOON.

AUGUST WIEBERG'S SEARCH

Story of Iowa Man Who Will Spend
All to Find Unseen Brother Who Was Born in An Asylum.

One of the most touching examples
of brotherly love that has ever been brought to light in the history of Rock County, a search that has claimed the unwavering interest and help of every county official who has been asked to aid, seems to be drawn to a successful conclusion. Compared to the tale of August Wieberg's search for a brother whom he has never seen and
whom, under similar circumstances,
many would permit to remain in obscure, even fiction would seem probable.

The incidents that lead up to Wie-berg's quest are known perhaps to a few of the residents of the county but only several of the county and state officials are familiar with the most recent developments. Primarily it is the old story of a family separated by misfortune. Unlike most stories,
where the children are too much occupied by an equal struggle against the world for mere existence, this is redeemed from the commonplace by a love seldom equaled.

It was in 1855 that Mrs. Isabella Wieberg, of the town of Newark
August of seven children of whom August was four years old, was committed to the insane asylum at Mendota. Of the trials and experiences of those orphaned, who were scattered far and near, taken into homes of whomsoever pitied them in their desperate plight, little need be said
except they might have forgotten each other's existence had it not been for August.

But however hard their lot might be considered, it was pleasant when contrasted to that of the eighth child,
a boy of whom none has ever called
brother and who was born to Mrs.
Wieberg shortly after she became an inmate of the state institution at Mendota. At that time the care of dependent children was not intrusted
to the county court, but the poor-master, the late Stephen B. Kenyon, placed them where he could and no
accurate records were kept.

This child, ushered into the world
under such unfortunate circumstances,
was placed in St. Vincent's asylum,
Milwaukee, by Mr. Kenyon, on Dec. 4, 1855 at the age of ten months. Here
so far as the world was concerned the pages of his life history became a blank. There was one, however, who had not forgotten him and if ever the foundling, who if alive, can claim kinship with any upon earth, is restored to his brothers and sisters, it will be through the untiring efforts
of his brother August.

Throughout the twenty-five years
since his mother was taken from him
by the state and the remainder of the family scattered, August has cherished
one desire, that of locating those of his family who were left. In Iowa, his chosen home, he had prospered but even while engaged in his work he had found time to prosecute his search for those from whom he had been separated. Six of them he found, some of them married and all able to fend for themselves. But the seventh, born in the asylum whose youth was spent among homeless ones, has not yet been found.

Wieberg has consulted the county records, the newspaper files and has visited the Milwaukee asylum but has found no trace of his youngest brother. There is a record of one child being committed to the institution
from this city at that time but under a different name. That child is dead.
As a last resort and acting on the advice of sympathetic county officials, Wieberg has appealed to the state board of control to investigate the records for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not an entry showing that the child was committed to the institution asylum from Mendota is on the records. If such an entry can be found, August's search may end successfully.

"If he is alive yet, he will be a man

for he must be nearly twenty-five years old," said Wieberg. "Considering what his life has been, he may be almost any kind of a man. I must take him as he is if I can find him
for I will never be satisfied until he is found for he is the only one left.
I've saved a little but I'm going to find out what became of him if I have to spend it all. I'll be satisfied if I find that he is dead for I just want to know what became of him. I'll never be satisfied until I know."

MONROE WOMAN MET VERY SUDDEN DEATH

Mrs. Joseph Keen, Well Beloved Resident of Monroe, Died After Few Hours' Illness.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Aug. 18.—Mrs. Joseph Keen, a citizen of this city for many years, passed away very peacefully at her home, 215 West Russell street, after a few hours of illness caused by chronic bowel trouble. She arose after breakfast and shortly after became very ill and died at 7:30 in the evening. Her daughters and son were sent for but all lived at such distances that they could not reach
her bedside.

Mrs. Keen was born in Ohio on
Nov. 25, 1837, and came to Green County when nine years of age. She was married to Joseph Keen in 1858
and to this union were born eight children, one dying in infancy. The deceased was well beloved by all and was a noble, Christian woman.
Though unable on account of ill
health to take part in the activities
of the world, she made many friends
by her good acts and her presence
will be greatly missed in the bereaved
home.

The daughters and son who live
from out of town have been summoned. The daughters are Mrs. Emma Leach of Jordon, Ia.; Mrs. Mary E.
Leach of Jordon, Ia.; Mrs. Sylvia
Chenail of Maurice, Ia.; Mrs. Anna
Alexander of Rockford, and Misses Corra and Eunice, who live at home,
at Algona, Ia. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Max, the Ludlow House dog, was elaborately buried after having drawn blood on three people. It has been very vicious of late and was badly
chewed up in a fight some time ago.
It was thought best to make away
with him before he caused any more trouble.

A. C. Stuntz has issued invitations to all octogenarians and nonagenar-ians of the city to meet with him on August 24 from 2 to 5 p. m. at an informal reception. Mr. Stuntz has a record of having lived 63 years in Wisconsin, 44 years in Monroe, and has been county surveyor of Green county for 22 years.

Mrs. Nancy Barnore was the oldest person in point of years at the Old Settlers' picnic held at Lincoln park.
She is 93 years of age and makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. William Penn, East Russell street.

HOPES STILL HIGH FOR TOBACCO CROP

Edgerton Tobacco Reporter Takes Optimistic View and Says Crop
May Pull Through Yet.

Copious rains fell over the greater portion of the tobacco sections of the state early in the week, putting an end to one of the most severe droughts
ever known in this state. The tobacco fields have responded so quickly under the influence of the warm days
following, that with one or two timely rains yet to come, there is encouragement that considerable tobacco leaf
may yet be harvested. Tobacco is such a recalcitrant crop that some surprises may be in store for us. The crops two weeks will certainly determine what the harvest will be and in the meantime dealers will doubtless keep close tab on the situation
which has a more encouraging outlook.

While the market for old leaf continues dull, buyers report increased
inquiries for samples and prices,
which might be construed to mean that business is reviving. About 100
cases were picked up in the state during the week by a Pennsylvania manufacturer. Some trading is also being done from first hands. One or two large quantities of "B" are reported sold
but particulars have not reached us.
The shipments out of storage reach 300 cases from this market to all points for the week.

The last year of drought previous to the present one materially affecting the tobacco crop of the state was in 1901 and that season rains came August 9th that saved the crop,
though in the southern growing sections it proved largely a short filler crop making an excellent "B" tobacco. Even if rains should come now the earlier fields could hardly hope to mature much size of leaf so much needed for binder purposes. The later set fields might develop larger leaf, but then a favorable curing season and a late fall would be necessary to see it through. As a usual thing September nights are too cool to promote the ripening of late tobacco, and
the danger of frosts is always present to contend with. So far the elements
seem to be decidedly against a satisfactory tobacco crop this year. From the very beginning of the season the grower has been playing in hard luck.

TOBACCO MEN ENJOY DAY UP THE RIVER

Wisconsin Leaf Tobacco Dealers' Association at Crystal Springs
Park on Thursday.

What proved to be one of the most enjoyable outings of the Wisconsin Leaf Tobacco Dealers' association was held on Thursday at Crystal Springs park. The party went up the river by steamer and enjoyed a bounteous dinner, served in the open air at long tables, under the direction of Chairman Thomas Welch with Louis Moulton acting as chef. A corps of volunteer waiters directed by John Saul-man and Edward Haskins say that the eighty-five guests and members of the association had plenty of the roast beef, vegetables, coffee, ice cream and watermelon. Ball games in the morning between old time players and a second game in the afternoon amused
many of the players, while quilts,
bridge and similar games were enjoyed by others. In the afternoon a meeting of the association was held at which time the question of seeking a reduction of the present insurance
rates was brought up and with Harford Severin as chairman, a committee was appointed from every tobacco center in the state to co-operate with the National Leaf Tobacco association with this in view. It was also decided to have another picnic
at Janesville next year and a committee with Thos. Welch was appointed to have charge of it. The party returned to the city on boats leaving
at five and six-thirty.

Advertise tomorrow so that people

bring business the next day, but because it will make people think well

you are in the market they will buy

A Dramatic Suicide.

Despite strenuous efforts to earn an honest living, an old woman of Lisbon, Portugal, and her three daughters were unable to pay their rent and so decided to commit suicide. They chose a spot near Estoril, where a great perpendicular rock stands high above the ocean, forming a terrible abyss called "Hell's Mouth." The four women leaped one another goodbye
and placed themselves in Indian file
on the edge of the precipice. Making the sign of the cross, the mother plunged first. Then the two elder daughters followed. The youngest,
however, seeing her mother and sisters wildly struggling in the waves
and hearing their screams of agony, hesitated. As she lifted her hands in a prayer for courage she was seen by fishermen. They rushed to the spot and were in time to save her by the skirts and thus to save her. It is feared that she has become insane.
The three girls were all good looking
the youngest being remarkably beautiful.

REP. R. A. BARTHOLDT

SEN. T. E. BURTON

AMERICAN DELEGATES PLAN DE CISIVE STEP FOR PEACE CON-GRESS.Representative Richard A. Bartholdt of Missouri, Chairman, at left; Sen.
T. E. Burton of Ohio, at right.

(By Special Correspondent.)
Bismarck.—World-wide peace is the object of each delegate to the international parliamentary union to be held in this city August 29, September 2.
Delegates from the world's parliaments will be present.

Representative Richard A. Bartholdt
chairman of the American delegation,
has reached an agreement with the other American delegates regarding
the proposition that they will have
the proposition that they will have
prepared for the consideration of that body looking toward the establishment of universal peace.

The American delegation will submit resolutions to the effect that the international prize court be invested with the jurisdiction of an international court of arbitral justice and that each of the parliaments represented in the conference proceed with the creation of a national commission,
whose duty it shall be to report to their respective parliaments within two years, in order that each government may be prepared with a definite plan of its own by the time of the third international conference at The Hague in 1915.

Washington, D. C.—The American delegation to the international parliamentary union consists of Representative Richard A. Bartholdt of Missouri, chairman; senators Benton of Ohio, Flint of California and Smith of Michigan; Representatives Koller of Ohio, Moon, Bartholdt, Burke and Wheeler of Pennsylvania, Richardson
of Alabama, Hanna of North Dakota, Fairchild, Cox and Goldfogel of New York and Parker and Kincaid of New Jersey.

Effect of Woman Suffrage on Women.

I once asked a visitor from New Zealand as to the vote of women in that much cited place. Her reply was unenthusiastic. "O, the women of position and influence have to vote because of the large vote cast by the factory girls." This answer suggests that the conscience of woman is quite as likely to be quickened to the duty
of franchise when obtained or "thrust upon" her as that of her brother. A man from Denver, in answer to a question concerning woman suffrage
in Colorado, said: "How long have I been a suffragist? Ever since I went to Denver. Of course, there is a certain class opposed to it, as to all reform, but no decent man would think of wishing to go back to the days before woman suffrage here, because of the good accomplished by the women's vote."—Mrs. Mary Dillingham Frear, Wife of Gov. Frear of Hawaii,

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, August 10, 1870.—Dedication Exercises.—Court Street M. E. Church.—The dedication exercises of the Court Street Methodist Episcopal church were held yesterday afternoon and evening, commencing at two o'clock. A large number of people were present from adjoining towns and villages and from our own city, filling the audience room in the afternoon so completely that no more could have gained admission had they made the attempt. It is estimated that about 1,000 persons listened to the sermon, and as there are seats for only 750, many were forced to remain standing. The aisles were filled and every space and corner where a chair could be placed was occupied while about the entrance and under the gallery the later comers held standing room.

The game at Milwaukee.—As was expected, the game of ball yesterday at Milwaukee, resulted in the defeat of the Mutuals of this city, by the Cream City's of the former place. Our club suffered a worse defeat, though, than was anticipated, but we are confident had the game continued through the ninth innings the score would have shown more favorably for the Mutuals. No blame can be attached to the umpire for calling the game on the seventh inning, as it was becoming too dark to continue it longer. Through the first six innings the Mutuals made only ten runs, but on the seventh inning they succeeded in bringing up the score to twenty-three. The score of the Cream City's was sixty-four.

Jottings.—The game law of this state permits sportsmen to commence operations tomorrow. Prairie chickens are said to be plenty in this vicinity.

Owing to the difficulty of getting water sufficient by hand pumping to sprinkle West Milwaukee street, the business men have purchased a force pump which is attached to Anderson, Harvey & Co.'s water power. The water is forced to an elevated tank at the rate of a barrel per minute, from which the sprinkling wagon can be filled in a few minutes. It is now confidently expected that the day for clouds of dust on that street has passed.

The following ministers of the gospel were present and took part in the dedication ceremonies at the Methodist church yesterday: Dr. Hatfield, Chicago; Dr. Miller, Ripon; Dr. Steele, Appleton; Dr. Hodge, Janesville; Elder Pillsbury, Milwaukee; Elder Thomas, Janesville; Rev. ELEVEN TONS OF DIAMONDS Output of the Kimberly Mines in Thirty-nine Years—Discovery of the Record Gem.

The day's work at the mine was over and Frederick Wells, the surface manager, was making his usual rounds. Glancing along one side of the deep excavation his eyes suddenly caught the gleam of a brilliant object far up the bank. He lost no time in climbing up to the spot where he had noted the glint of light. He had not been mistaken; it was a brilliant crystal. He tried to pull it out with his fingers and as this proved impossible he sought to pry it out with the blade of his penknife. To his surprise the blade of the knife broke without causing the stone to yield. Then he knew it was a large stone. So large and brilliant was the stone that he feared he was either dreaming or was insane.

Determined to test the stone on the spot before proceeding further, Wells rubbed off the dirt from one of its faces with his fingers and soon convinced himself that it was not a lump of glass, but a diamond, apparently of exceptional whiteness and purity. He finally succeeded in prying out the stone and bore it away with him to the office of the mine. Here it was cleaned and, to the astonishment of all, was found to have a weight of 302½ carats, more than three times that of any other diamond that had been discovered. Before many hours passed the telegraph carried tidings to all parts of the world that the greatest diamond of this age or any other age had been brought to light.

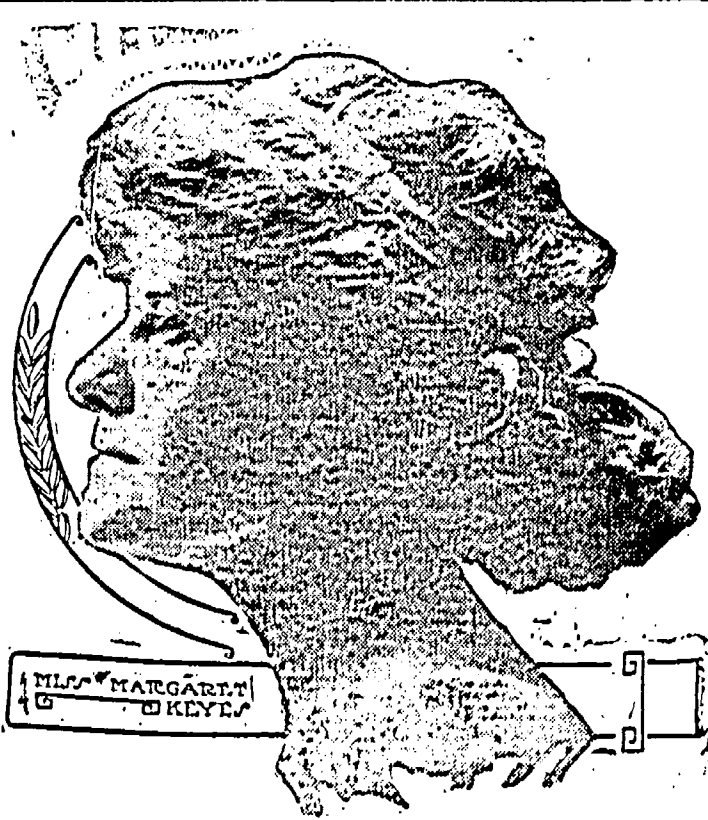

It was thirty-nine years, July 13, 1871, since the discovery of diamonds in South Africa. Do you know how these great mines were discovered? The Christian Herald asks. A trader stopping over night with a Dutch farmer saw the children playing with bright marbles. The trader took the white stones to Capetown and found they were diamonds of wonderful beauty and great value. In these thirty-nine years about eleven tons of diamonds have been taken from the Kimberly mines. Think of eleven tons of diamonds, like eleven tons of coal, being dumped into your cellar!

Fish Influenced by the Moon?

A recent report of the Scotch fishery board mentioned a curious habit which, according to fishermen, is associated with fish; the phases of the moon, it was asserted, have a very direct connection with the willingness of fish to be netted.

To test this theory statistics were obtained of the catch of herrings from 1880 to 1900, with the result that the biggest catches were found to have coincided with new moon and the smallest with full moon. The report suggested that a full moon enabled the nets to be seen much more easily than at the times of new moon or the crescent phase or that the tides, which vary with the lunar phases, were possible factors in the matter.—Westminster Gazette.

THOUSANDS GATHER AT NATIONAL SONG FESTIVAL. Miss Margaret Keys, contralto, one of the great singers who are to appear in the Saengerfest.

San Francisco, Cal.—From every state in the Union the music-loving German people will journey to San Francisco for the Saengerfest or musical festival, which will be held in the auditorium under the auspices of the Pacific Saengerbund, September 1 to 4 inclusive. More than 10,000 visitors are expected. Soloists of international reputation have been engaged to take part in the program. One of the features of the great musical carnival will be the chorus of 1,000 voices, which will be made up from the best singing societies of the country.

Under the management of Dr. Max Magnus, president of the general committee in charge of the festival, work has already begun and every aid is being given by the officers of the Pacific Saengerbund, who are as follows: President, Dr. Max Magnus; vice-president, Robert Lorenz; recording secretary, Frank Horton; corresponding secretary, Adolf Lion; treasurer, Gustav Leibold.

The chorus will be under the direction of Arthur Classen of New York.

for the respective prize winning poems, and nearly 100 compositions were submitted. The committee decided in favor of that of A. Buscho of Philadelphia, set to the new waltz by Konrad Nies, the prize being a gold medal. The second prize, a silver medal, was awarded to Theodore Vogt of this city. Honorable mention was given John C. Rath, H. Kaufmann and Richard Forber, all of this city.

Taking Exercise.
The worst error of exercise, the most dangerous fad of physical culture, is not to take enough of it; and to smear at every form that does not bear the dollar mark. By one of these cynical poetic justices of nature the very men who denounce all physical culture and recreation as fads are those who pay the heaviest personal penalty for this delusion. They use the vigor that they have gained to chain themselves in dungeons of offices or airless workrooms twelve or fourteen hours a day. They "feel fine" and are sure they are going to live to be 100; but one day, to their astonishment, a little artery, whose coat has been hardened for twenty years unexercised, becomes so brittle that it snaps suddenly—and down they go with a stroke of paralysis, like a winged duck. It is never safe to jeer at the gods, whether the imaginary ones of Olympus or the real ones of modern science.—Outing.

A Superfluous Word.
Without being so vain as to pretend that our own columns are invariably impeccable in this respect, we cannot avoid wondering how much longer that exceedingly useful and versatile little word "out" is to be overworked and when it will be discarded for some new victim of the phrase-smith. It is a long, long time now since anybody over tried anything, or won or lost. One always tries out, or wins out, or loses out. Of course, somebody is likely to pop up with a reminder that that use of the word was familiar in Shakespeare's time, but what of that? If we are such economists of ink that we must drop letters from our words until they look like phonetic pl, why on earth must we stick in a whole and wholly superfluous word? Why not just try winning without winning out and see if it doesn't come to exactly the same thing? And why not try that without trying it out, as though it were hard or whale oil?

SHOWS WHERE BULLET ENTERED
B AND C SHOW WHERE BULLET LODGED

THE EXACT NATURE OF MAYOR GAYNOR'S WOUND ANALYZED.

New York, N. Y.—Dr. Walter Peet, writing for the New York World, makes the following analysis of the wound inflicted upon Mayor Gaynor when the would-be assassin, Gallagher, attempted the life of the mayor:

"Mayor Gaynor's wound, like President McKinley's, is one on which no certain pronouncement can be made. There is an even fighting chance. There were optimists, and especially one extremely cheerful forecaster—an eminent New York surgeon—who predicted up to the eleventh hour that the president would live.

"Mayor Gaynor's wound is a very peculiar and unusual one. He was shot by a taller man, or at least one who was standing higher, and who was to one side and slightly behind the mayor.

"The bullet, therefore, after entering a little below the ear on the right side, ploughed downward and forward, as was shown to me by Dr. Loderle.

"How this bullet avoided cutting the carotid artery, which is the main blood vessel to the brain, or the jugular vein, is a mystery. It may, however, have cut the outer coats of either of them, with consequent later fatality.

"It is well known that any wound in the neck is most dangerous. Here all the important blood vessels and nerves converge into a small circumference—the smallest, in fact, in our anatomy—and it is hard to wound any part of the neck to any considerable depth without causing death.

"Then the downward course of the bullet militates against the chances of recovery, as, if it lodges in the deep tissues and cannot be extracted, it will form a pocket which will collect germs and consequent pus, which, of course, will be fatal.

"The age of the mayor is against him, but his vitality is very much in his favor. When the bullet is located and removed the prognosis can be more accurately made."

Odd Name.

J. M. Shepherd of Knob Noster writes the Star concerning the origin of his town's name: "Knob Noster is situated at the foot of two beautiful hills, or 'knobs,' in the western vernacular. These knobs are green and grassy to their summits and rise out of a flat prairie, from which they can be seen for many miles. When the village was founded in the early fifties a schoolhouse was built and an eastern schoolmaster was employed to teach a pay-school. When he arrived at his place of employment he was struck with the beauty of the knobs, and being exceedingly proud of his knowledge of Latin dubbed them 'Knobs Noster' or 'Our Knobs.' The villagers were struck with the name and named their town after the designation of their Latin-loving schoolmaster. The process of time seems to have worn the 's' from 'Knobs,'—Kansas City Star.

SMART FABRIC TAILORED HAT BY GAGE.

Fabric hats are the very newest French notion, and particularly comfortable are these soft hats which may be pulled down over the hair when the wind blows. A smart fabric turban, made of bright scarlet serge, is shown here, and as will be seen, the material is heavily attached to give it body and form. The crown is rather high and pointed into a curling brim, which in turn is caught back to the tall crown under a strapping of silk braid—also bright red. There is a band of black velvet around the base of the pleated crown, which gives smartness to the bright red model.

How Gypsies Crossed the Connecticut.

Tuesday was gypsies' day and controlled the workings of the ferryboat Colonel at the Connecticut river all afternoon. Sixteen wagons loaded with men, women and children blocked the road to the boat, while one of the band was dickering with Purser Joe Bates for reduced rates, which he would not grant. Automobile parties sizing up the situation and knowing how long it would take to convey the bunch over bought out their rights, paying one, two and three dollars, through which means they made enough money to pay all expenses and a large amount to the good. It was nine o'clock p. m. before the last one departed with the man who did the collecting and handled the cash, taking along with him the tender, who stood at his post with the purser still dickering for reduced rates. They were seen counting the cash and had left a good surplus after crossing the river. —Old Saybrook correspondence New London Day.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Sundog

WHAT'S a sundog, Mr. Ticklemouse? Dorfy sat straight up in bed, the question ready on the tip of her tongue.

"Why," said the Mouse after a moment's thought, "it's a bright spot in the sky, not far from the sun—looks sort of like a real sun itself. Why, Dorfy?"

"Well, Abner Doolittle said there was one out this afternoon, but I couldn't see anything that looked like a dog."

"Suppose we just visit the sundog, then, and see for ourselves what he looks like. Even Willy's never had a good look at one, or he'd know better than to laugh."

No sooner said than done. A few minutes later they had boarded the gooseplane, patted its broad back kindly, and headed to the east—toward tomorrow's rising sun. Up, up they flew, till they could see over the edge of the world. Soon the round faced sun smiled his warmest smile upon them, and the Ticklemouse reached under the seat for his fieldglasses.

"Try these," he said. Dorfy looked and clapped her hands. "It is a dog!" she cried. "And, oh, what a whopper!" Then Davy looked, and trembled with excitement as they drew near the throne of the sun.

"What's your dog's name, Mr. Sun?" asked the Ticklemouse very politely.

"The Sleepyland Scorchier," smiled the Sun with a wink at the twins. "These are the famous Davy and Dorfy, I suppose?"

"That's the way with him," laughed the red-checked old Sun. "Makes him hot to speak of performing, these days. Everything makes him hot. He's a heap hotter'n I am!"

"If that's so," said the Ticklemouse, with an anxious glance at the gray goose's feathers, which were already beginning to sizzle at the ends, "let's not ask him." But he spoke too late. Louder and louder came the crashing growls as the flaming sundog angrily laid his head on a rosy cloud and slowly lifted his hind feet in air.

"Call him off quick, Mr. Sun!" The Mouse put spurs to the smoking goose, the sparks flying as they sped swiftly out of harm's way. But one wing was badly scorched, and the nearer they came to Doverville the more wobbly was their flight.

It was a tired quartette that crawled at last through the nursery window—Willy was as saucy as ever, but the rest were still scared.

"Davy," said the Ticklemouse, as the little boy helped him bandage the goose's injured wing, "the next time you get to wondering what sundogs look like at close range, don't you dare send for me till you've had the tailors make us some fireproof jackets—four for us and one for the goose!"

pose? Good! Would they like to see the scorcher perform?"

The sundog began to growl at this—

The New Fall Suits

Hart Schaffner & Marx have used a lot of time and money, to say nothing about brains, in evolving the clothing they have sent us for fall and winter. Advance shipments are here and will interest you. Young Men's Fall Suits

It will pay every young man in the city to come and inspect the new styles in suits and overcoats. We want you to see them and therefore invite you to call any time. Frankish styles for young men are of the past. This fall's showing of H. S. & M. clothing is remarkable for its beauty. One style called the "Shapemaker" is particularly attractive—coat cut extra long, fitting rather closely in at the back, long lapels; vest is form fitting, the back fits as perfectly as the front. The fall coats are two and three button, pants are cut extreme peg top and so shaped about waist as to lay perfectly over hips and not require a suspender. Prices $20.00 to $30.00.

Fall Shirts, Gloves, Underwear

New arrivals of handsome dressy things bought for you and to be seen any time you care to look.

We have an expert in charge of this department whose work will speak for itself. Under the management of Geo. F. Davis, the work is the highest grade pressing, cleaning and repairing. No job too intricate for him.
